What Do They Say?

More than a building, the long awaited Field House which is under construction had become a symbol representing the direction Oglethorpe would take in the future. The direction is now clear; it is forward!

Dr. Agnew said recently that, "We are highly grateful and pleased to launch the building of the Field House. Our Trustees, alumni and friends," he added, "have worked hard to accomplish this step in Oglethorpe's progress."

"The Field House will be a center of student activities and will be of service to the community at large."

"It is the second step, Goodman Hall being the first, within Oglethorpe's accelerating development program, to match its academic excellence with adequate facilities."

Athletic Director, Garland Pinholter, said, "Oglethorpe has been recognized widely as an institution with a strong academic program. Construction of the new gymnasium eliminated the biggest obstacle we have faced in developing a sound physical education and athletic curriculum. A new building clears the way for improvement in physical education activities, intercollegiate athletic play, recruitment, scheduling, intramural activities and minor sports."

"The greatest contribution," he said, "of the new gym will result from the renewed interest in all Oglethorpe University people whether they be students, faculty, alumni or fans. This building will symbolize the courage my boys have shown in athletic com-

O.U. Has Record Enrollment

Students from 10 states and 8 foreign countries are represented in Oglethorpe University's record enrollment for the fall of 1959.

Oglethorpe registrar, Mrs. Marjorie MacConnell, reported that 292 students were enrolled, which is more than a 60 per cent increase over last year.

Both the men's and women's dormitories are filled to capacity, and classroom space is at a premium. Dr. Donald C. Agnew, President, estimates that Oglethorpe's capacity is limited to some 300 to 325 students including both day and boarding students.

Indications are that the space problem at Oglethorpe will become critical in the fall of 1960, since more than 2,800 requests for information have already been received from students interested in entering college next year.

The geographical location of students attending Oglethorpe is as follows:

	Number Enrolled	Per Cent of Enrollment
Atlanta	127	44
Georgia	108	37
Florida	21	7
New York	7	2
North Carolina	6	2

Corporate Alumnus

A growing number of corporations throughout the country are following the example of the General Electric Company in supporting higher education through a corporate alumnus program.

The basic philosophy of this program is simple and direct. Briefly, they wish to help those schools who help themselves. Their definition of a college which helps itself is one whose alumni are loyal and contribute up to its program. The corporations, in turn, will contribute an equal amount to a stipulated sum to the alma mater of the employee.

If you are employed by any of the following firms, mail your check today to Oglethorpe University with the notation "Forward Oglethorpe Fund" or "NAAOU Dues" along with the matching corporate alumnus form which may be secured from your personnel or public relations office. The amount you send will be matched by your company. In this way, Oglethorpe receives double benefit from the money you give.

Although unreasonable, it is nevertheless true, that the value placed by others on your attendance at Oglethorpe is measured by what Oglethorpe means to them today. It is no secret that not long ago many people felt that an Oglethorpe education left much to be desired. Today, however, the Oglethorpe degree is regarded well, and its reputation as a quality school is growing. There may be a greater correlation in the increasing stature of Oglethorpe among the nation's col-

BOOSTER CLUB BANQUET

The "Annual Coach of the Year Banquet" will be held in the Oglethorpe Cafeteria on Saturday, December 5, at 6:00 P.M. prior to the Petrels' basketball game with Valdosta State.

Coach Frank Anderson will be one of the honored guests of the evening.

Tickets for the dinner, which will be $2.50 per person, may be had by sending your check to the Editor of the Flying Petrel at Oglethorpe University.

Although Oglethorpe took both games from the Rebels of Valdosta last year, the south Georgia squad is considerably stronger than it was during the past season. The game is expected to be hard-fought, close, and exciting.

All alumni are invited to participate in this fall homecoming event. Make your reservation as soon as possible.

Aldrich to Address National Conference On West Coast

Lyman C. Aldrich '38, Project Leader of the Analytical Group in the Research Department of West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company, Covington, Virginia, will present an outstanding technical paper at the Tenth Annual Testing Conference of the Technical Association of Pulp & Paper Industry (TAPPI), to be held August 17th through 21st at the Multnomah Hotel in Portland, Oregon.

This national meeting of the country's leading experts on all technical problems and work concerning the pulp and paper industry will attract a national and international attendance of several hundred people.

The paper to be presented by Mr. Aldrich, whose home address is Idlewilde, RFD 2, Covington, Virginia, concerns itself with one of the increasingly important aspects of standardization which is as vital to the pulp and paper industry as it is to most other fields today. The paper is entitled: "Standardization of Model C Mullen Testing in a Multi-mill Company" and deals with a new airblending device which determines printing pressure on paper and foil.

petition, the work of the Booster Club, and the tireless efforts of Dr. Agnew on our behalf since he became President of the University. With such a symbol and tangible evidence before us, we don't believe we can fail in any part of our athletic and physical education efforts."

Dr. Martin L. Abbott, Professor of History, voiced a typical faculty reaction when he said, "I am quite enthusiastic about the Field House. I believe it is a positive asset in various ways. It will help to further the esprit de corps of Oglethorpe, and it will call attention to Oglethorpe University in a favorable manner."

Steve Schmidt, President of the Booster Club, stated: "The Field House will be a tremendous boost to our alumni interest and support. It will provide a traditional gathering place for the Petrel boosters to rally

About Dr. Abbott

Dr. Martin L. Abbott, Professor of History at Oglethorpe, has had another article published in a historical magazine. It appeared in the June issue of the "Tennessee Historical Quarterly" and it is entitled "The South as Seen by a Tennessee Unionist in 1865: Letters of H. M. Watterson".

It consists of several letters written to President Andrew Johnson by H. M. Watterson, father of the famous "Marse Henry" Watterson of the Louisville Courier and Journal, who toured the South as an agent of the President in the summer and fall of 1865. His letters are a particularly revealing commentary on the political thinking of the South in the immediacy of defeat from the Civil War, and thus add to our knowledge of what war and defeat had meant to the leaders of the fallen Confederacy.

Dr. Abbott was a visiting associate professor in history last summer at Emory University.

Recently, by the authority of the governor of Georgia, Dr. Abbott was appointed to membership on the Committee on Publications of the Georgia Civil War Centennial Commission. It is a committee which consists of historians, art and advertising men and publishers. It will have the responsibility to study the proposals of publications commemorating the centennial and make final decisions as to what should be published and to see that all publications come up to a worthy standard. He is also serving as chairman of the local arrangements committee for the Southern Historical Commission which meets in Atlanta this fall to observe its 25th anniversary.

Oglethorpe University along with Agnes Scott and Emory are host institutions for the convention.

Oglethorpe's Trustees are to be commended for their diligent efforts in overcoming almost insurmountable problems in order to get the Field House underway. Their efforts will be rewarded through greater confidence and faith in Oglethorpe University among its alumni and in the alumni's increased support of Oglethorpe's programs.

MR. EGERTON, MAN IN DEMAND

Mr. William A. Egerton, Professor of Management at Oglethorpe University, is busy speaking to business firms and also conducting management development courses for their managerial personnel.

Last May he spoke to the members of the Georgia Consumer Finance Assn. in Savannah at their annual meeting, and in June he discussed "Leadership" at the Dinkler Plaza in Atlanta with executives of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Mr. Egerton has conducted management development courses for the regional and district managers of the Coca Cola Co. in Memphis, Tenn., last June, and also for the second of three groups of managers for the Atlas Finance Company in Atlanta. He has conducted week-end courses for managers of the All State Insurance Company in Atlanta, Charlotte, N. C., Roanoke, Va., and Jackson, Miss. in October.

He is currently leading a management development course for department heads and managers of Regenstein's Department Store in Atlanta.

On October 22 Mr. Egerton conducted an afternoon session on supervision for the managers in this region of the U. S. Forestry Service at the University of Georgia Center for Continuing Education in Athens.

Mr. Egerton is looking forward to three courses he will teach to the Coca Cola Bottlers in Los Angeles and surrounding areas for three weeks in January.

Dr. Arthur Cohen Featured World Wide

Petrels Make Ready For 1959-60 Season

With the 1959-60 basketball season about to begin, the questions are: "How do the Petrels stack up with last year's squad? and how will they fare this year?"

According to Coach Garland Pinholster, the man who ought to know, the personnel has greater potential than the hoopsters of last year. They are strong at the guard and center positions, but lack experience at the forward slots with the exception of 6'2" hustler, Roger Couch.

New men at forward are freshman Morris Mitchell, 6'5½" and Bob Nance, 6'4", and junior transfer Buddy Goodwin, 6'1", who shows a lot of poise on the floor.

Pinholster was encouraged by Mitchell in a recent practice game with Lenoir Rhyne, a team that reached the quarter finals last year in the NAIA playoffs in Kansas City. Mitchell scored 20 points in twenty minutes in the last of the three games and was a stand-out rebounder.

Jay Dye, veteran 6'5" pivot man, may be the best in the state this year, according to Pinholster. His relief will be a 6'2" junior, Sammy Hudgins, who is eager for action this year.

Guards are solid with sophomores Tommy Norwood and Jay Rowland leading the pack. Behind them are Wayne Dobbs, a smart, steady performer; transfer, Johnny Guthrie, very quick; and Bobby Dagleish, a freshman from Atlanta's Murphy High School.

About the 1959-60 season, Coach Pinholster said, "We're playing a lot rougher schedule, and our people are going to have to be satisfied losing a few ball games until we have the personnel to go with a tough schedule."

In an attempt to evaluate his team's chances this year, he feels that the Petrels will win at least half of their games with a good possibility of playing .667 ball if they progress as he believes they will.

A big difference in the close ones is the support the boys receive from the cheering section. Clip the season's schedule from this issue of The Flying Petrel and paste it on your mirror. Once you have seen these boys play, you won't want to miss a game.
